

British Rulers May Feast On Hot Dogs

First Lady Undecided Whether to Give Picnic Or Garden Party

How and where the King and Queen of England sleep, what they eat or how much is of no concern to the British Government so long as Their Majesties are safe. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt revealed yesterday at her press conference.

Beset by indecision over whether her royal guests will be fêted with a picnic or a garden party and whether they will be fed hot dogs when they visit Hyde Park June 11, Mrs. Roosevelt let it be known neither the British Government nor any individual Briton offered suggestions about entertainment. The government, however, will furnish two detectives from Scotland Yard to augment forces of the Secret Service in seeing that Their Majesties come to no harm at Hyde Park or at the White House.

As for what they will eat, Mrs. Roosevelt revealed she was inclined to the picnic with hot dogs, while the President's mother, Mrs. James S. Roosevelt, favored a garden party. Hot dogs will be on the menu anyway, she said, if the weather isn't too warm.

Members of the royal party who will stay at the White House, it was announced, will be Lady Spencer, lady-in-waiting to the Queen; Alan Llewellyn, the King's secretary, and two Scotland Yard operatives, two valets and two maids.

The Roosevelt family will provide the only exception to the "strictly official" list of guests for the State dinner and musicale the night of June 8, Mrs. Roosevelt said. They may include the President's mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., and John Roosevelt.

A special effort will be made to obtain representative American artists for the evening's musicale, and all who appear will be presented to the King and Queen, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

Meanwhile, Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, has invited all Washington correspondents to attend a press conference at the Embassy at 10 a. m. today, in relation to the visit of the King and Queen.

The Ambassador has not been in the habit of holding conferences with the press, and the invitation yesterday was taken to indicate that Sir Ronald will supervise relations with the press during the royal visit.

Queen Dazzles Quebec With Gems

ROYALTY. from Page 1.

another French name and a demi-tasse.

The King smoked a cigarette, and the men followed suit. The Queen, however, passed up the cigarettes, and so, of course, the other women had to beg them, to beg them, to beg them. The Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed: "God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

30,000 Children Greet Them

As the King and Queen arrived on this once gory field, they saw 30,000 school children gathered before them, shepherded by priests and nuns, and fluttering tiny flags for all they were worth. In the daze of color could be seen the British Union Jack, the French tri-color and the gold, white and purple of the Vatican.

A band struck up a familiar tune—"God Save the King"—to those in the Empire. "My Country, 'Tis of Thee"—to us below the border—and the children began to sing.

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

King George, who had seemed nervous earlier, tapping his sword hilt occasionally or touching his collar, smiled with genuine abandon, and the Queen, who smiles easier, did likewise.

The tune continued, but then the language changed:

"God Save Our Gracious King," "Long Live Our Noble King," "In the voices of the children, us—"

"Dieu sauve Le Roi," they chorused. "En Lui nous avons foi—"

Wheatley P.-T. A. President Retires

Members of the Wheatley School Parent-Teacher Association, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Lotus Restaurant in honor of Mrs. Martin Johnson, retiring as president of the group after three years, service. Left to right—Mrs. Ruth Field, vice president, pins P.-T. A. medal on Mrs. Johnson, as Mrs. William Lee, treasurer, waits to present her a traveling bag ing one language and then the other, was the voice of Canada, and also testimony to the genius of British diplomacy, which has won the support of a people in this particular case by never denying them their culture or their religion.

During an interlude in the singing on the old battlefield, three little girls wearing white cloaks and white white wreaths on their hair went to the grandstand to present the Queen with a bouquet of flowers. Eight years old—the same age as Princess Margaret Rose—they, too, typified Canada.

One was Paule Delage, who attends a French school for Catholics; another was Emily Fitzpatrick, who goes to an English language school for Irish Catholics, and the third was Marguerite Stobo, who attends a school for Protestants.

After the children had presented their bouquet and curtsied, the Queen could be seen talking to them exuberantly. Later they said she had asked them their names and how old they were.

"The Queen smelled sweet," added Emily Fitzpatrick. In the whirl of events that en-the maroon-colored Royal car and started through Quebec's narrow, flag-lined streets for the Parliamentary halls.

In the course of the day, Their Majesties must have shaken hands with 1,000 persons.

The curtsying of the women and the bowing of the men took many and varied forms. Some of the women seemed to dip, others to sway, while the men did everything from a bob of the head to a jack-knife bow of the old Potsdam style and some backed away from the King and Queen, only to bump others who didn't seem to know just what they were doing.

The Empress of Australia, a chaste white in contrast with the foreboding gray of the two British cruisers and the two Canadian destroyers, streamed down the St. Lawrence, the high banks of which were lined with waving thousands.

Prime Minister MacKenzie King and Lieutenant Governor J. E. Patenaude of Quebec went aboard to welcome Their Majesties. A few minutes later, two British marines appeared above the gangplank to sound their flourishes, and that was the signal for the King and Queen to make their historic strides onto Canadian soil.

They came down the gangplank together, he in his admiral's uniform, fore and aft hat, and with 14 decorations gleaming on his breast; and she in a dove gray costume that seemed too light for the weather.

The King and Queen, sitting behind bullet-proof glass in their open car, started up the hills to the legislative buildings, where they sat on thrones, heard the speeches, and held the second reception.

Next was a state luncheon in the Chateau Frontenac. The King made a speech and the band played Annie Laurie for the Scotland-born Queen.

At today's luncheon, the King spoke twice, in English and in French, in English to MacKenzie King and in French to Senator Dandurand and, through him, to his French-speaking subjects.

It is the first time that a British King has crossed the Atlantic. I stand today on the soil of North America. Here, in the past two centuries, through loss and through gain, the British Commonwealth of Nations has been largely molded into its present form.

The King obviously referred to England's acquisition of Canada from the French and her loss of the American colonies 17 years later.

"You, in Canada," he said, "have already fulfilled part of the Biblical promise and obtained dominion from sea to sea. You are now engaged in fulfilling the latter part of that promise in consolidating government from the river to the ends of the earth, from the St. Lawrence to the Arctic snows."

To Dandurand he said, "It was here that the door to Canada was first opened and it was here that the Canadian nation was born."

"It was here," he continued, "that great exploits were accomplished, leaving records that will ever remain glorious for France and Great Britain. It is here today that two great races dwell happily side by side. The spirit of Quebec is a happy fusion of vigorous spirit, proudly guarded."

"It is the mixing of the old with the new that makes for a powerful city or nation."

MacKenzie King, welcoming the King and Queen to Canada, said that "today, as never before, the throne has become the center of our

This is Worth Reading!

LaSalle

$1,355 AND UP, delivered in Washington, D.C. subject to change without notice. side-wait tires extra.

1222 22nd St. N.W. CAPITOL CADILLAC CO. National 3300 F. D. AKERS, President

MANN MOTORS, INC. Silver Spring, Md. AERO AUTO CO., INC. Alexandria, Va. W. L. KING MOTOR CO. Gaithersburg, Md. D. J. MARTIN, SALES Triangle, Va.

THIS IS WORTH reading because it points the quickest, surest way to the right decision about what new car to buy. Simply take a demonstration ride in a LaSalle. That will settle the question quickly. Almost half the people who try LaSalle—buy LaSalle! The car's marvelous performance—its restful comfort and handling ease—make an instant appeal to everyone. A car is ready any time you are!

national life" and "dropped what many considered a hint of Canada's attitude toward the young couple called so unexpectedly to leadership of their nation when King Edward VIII abdicated to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, an American divorcee.

"Greater than our sense of the splendor of your state," he said, "is our affection for two young people who bear, in so high a spirit, a responsibility unparalleled in the world."

Dandurand told the royal couple French-speaking Canadians "from loyal hearts," greet the King with "vive le Roi!"

MacKenzie King, welcoming the King and Queen to Canada, said that "today, as never before, the throne has become the center of our

Established 1895
LOUIS ABRAHAMSON
LOANS ON JEWELRY
CASH FOR YOUR OLD GOLD
711 G. St. N.W.

NO DOWN PAYMENT
Pay Nothing Till Fall on the ELECTROL
OIL BURNER
GRIFFITH CONSUMERS COMPANY
1413 NEW YORK AVE. N.W. MET. 4840

Brand New "Super 107"

DUNLOP TIRES

at savings up to 50%!

Drive in today for the greatest values ever offered in Dunlop tires—Legitimate savings of from 10% to 50% made possible by LEETH BROS. liberal trade-in plan! Every size carried in stock, tires for every purse and purpose. Prices start as low as $8.95 for 6.00-16. less trade allowance. NAME YOUR OWN TERMS!

U.S. ROYAL FIRESTONE

6.50-16 List Price $19.95 First Line, First Quality! SAVE $6.55

$12.80

FORD TIRES 6.00-16 First Line, First Quality! $9.95

* Brand-new tires taken in trade on Dunlop's before being used. Price includes old tires in trade.

LEETH BROS.

1220 13th St. N.W. MEt. 0764
Tire Service Daily From 8 to 8; Sunday, 8 to 3

BIGGER-BETTER

PEPSI-COLA

A TRULY DELICIOUS COLA AND FRUIT DRINK. IT'S GOOD FOR YOU.

5¢

Look for the Trade Mark

PEPSI-COLA

REFRESHING HEALTHFUL

WORTH A DIME

IT'S UP TO US TO WIN YOUR GOOD-WILL

THE POLICY OF "AMERICA'S FINEST" BARS AND STORES

[AS INTERPRETED BY THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM]

OPERATING a bar or liquor store is like any other retail business in the community—except in one respect. It involves a social responsibility. We can't ignore it—or evade it. We must accept it. Our right to exist depends upon your good-will.

The great majority of us are sincerely striving to win your confidence and respect by maintaining a service that will be a credit to ourselves, our families, and our community. Public opinion is our license to do business. That's why we realize it's up to us to earn your good-will.

The House of Seagram, one of America's largest distillers, is proud to sponsor this Good-Will Campaign for "America's Finest" Bars and Stores. Its objectives, we believe, are in keeping with the spirit of Seagram's policy of "Moderation," which we have advocated so persistently over the past 5 years.

Seagram

FINE WHISKIES SINCE 1857

SEAGRAM'S 7 CROWN Blended Whiskey—America's Finest Rich Whiskey—A rich tasting whiskey without a trace of heaviness. 60% neutral spirits distilled from grains. 90 Proof.

SEAGRAM'S 3 CROWN Blended Whiskey—America's Finest Mild Whiskey—A milder tasting whiskey with a superb fineness of bouquet. 72 1/2% neutral spirits distilled from grains. 90 Proof.

SEAGRAM'S "V.O." Canadian Blended Canadian Whiskey—"Canada's Finest"—deliciously delicate—yet deeply satisfying. A masterpiece of the blender's art. 86.8 Proof. 6 years old. Copr. 1919, Seagram-Distillers Corp., New York

"AMERICA'S FINEST" "Canada's Finest"

YOU'LL SEE THIS SIGN AT "AMERICA'S FINEST" BARS AND STORES IN WASHINGTON

We want the Good-Will of our Community

Therefore:

- 1 We pledge our full cooperation to maintain the service of this establishment so that it will at all times be a credit to the community.
- 2 We advocate moderation.
- 3 We believe that drinking and driving do not mix.
- 4 We will not sell to minors.
- 5 We believe in living up to the spirit—as well as the letter of the law.
- 6 We will not practice "substitution"
- 7 We carry "the finest" whiskies, gins, wines and cordials.
- 8 We earnestly strive to merit the confidence of our customers.
- 9 We need your cooperation; we want your GOOD-WILL.

Presented to this Establishment by THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM

GOOD-WILL CAMPAIGN FOR "AMERICA'S FINEST" BARS AND STORES SPONSORED BY THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM